JAPS LASHED IN BATTLE OF "RICE BOWL"

Tokyo Forces Set Back By Fighting Chinese In Tungting Sector

CHIANG'S BOMBERS HIT SUPPLY ROUTES

Invaders Falling Back To Ichang Under Heavy Attack

(By Associated Press) Imperial Tokyo headquarters tacitly admitted a setback today in fierce battles west of Tungting lake, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies have been fighting to defend China's vital "rice bowl" lands and the route to the war-time capital of Chungking.

The Tokyo command, resorting to its familiar propaganda technique of explaining a reverse, said Japanese troops had "successfully completed operations" in the Lake region and had killed or wounded 36,300 Chinese and captured 5,923 prisoners against a Japanese loss of 475 killed in action.

The Japanese also said "a crushing offensive" had been carried out against 120,000 Chungking defense troops in the sector opposite Ichang, main Japanese base on the Yangtze river front, where the Chinese reported yesterday five Japanese divisions had been thrown into disorderly retreat.

Retreat Continues Chinese headquarters today said the Japanese retreat toward Ichang was continuing, while Chinese bombers operating with strong fighter escort blasted enemy supply routes in the Yangtze valley near Ichang.

Chinese troops were reported laying siege to a Japanese-held city only 12 miles from Ichang.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—"Puzzling" is the word applied to the recent Japanese campaign in China by informed persons here, who find the enemy employing forces too small for a major offensive, too large for a mere raid.

One observer suggested that the Japanese, while intending primarily to clinch a seizure of China's "rice bowl" in Hunan province, may have intended — for some obscure reason of their own — to make the Chinese believe that the operations in adjoining Hubei were the beginning of a drive on Chungking.

That such a campaign against the Chinese capital actually was starting is considered unlikely, however.

German Submarine Sunk, 40 Of Crew Are Captured By U.S. Coast Guard Cutter

German Raider, Lurking In Path of Large Convoy, Is Wiped Out With Depth Charges and Roaring Deck Guns

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 2.—Destruction of a German submarine and capture of 40 members of her crew by the coast guard cutter Spencer was reported by the Navy today.

With depth charges and roaring guns, the cutter sank the submarine in the Atlantic several weeks ago when the raider was detected lurking in the path of a "large and important convoy making for an Allied port."

Completely submerged and with her periscope down, the submarine was located by Soundman Harold V. Anderson, Kewanee, Ill., and the Spencer, commanded by Commander Harold S. Berdine, 41, of Staten Island, made two depth charge runs over it.

Efforts by the submarine to get under the convoy in hope that the noise of the cargo ship's engines would interfere with the Spencer's detection devices failed, and the cutter remained on the raider's trail and dropped a third "basket of eggs."

"The worst threat was now over," the navy related. "Not a ship had been fired, nor had a ship been touched. However, the cutter still continued her pursuit. The U.S. coast guard cutter Duane charged in to assist, and the Spencer made ready to let go with her fourth attack when a lookout shouted:

"Conning tower on the port quarter!"

"Gun crews on both the ships trained their guns instantly on the submarine, and opened a withering, effective fire. At the same time, the Spencer rang up full speed and headed for the U-boat prepared to ram."

"As the damaged sub moved slowly ahead through the calm seas, members of her crew took stations on the bridge and returned the fire of the American ships with the light gun mounted there."

The Spencer's lifeboats were riddled, a boat davit was nearly cut in two; bridge flag bags, bulkheads and doors were damaged.

"Submarine crewmen who made for the heavy deck gun, however, were driven back by the accurate

CLEAN-UP PLANS SHELVED BY CITY

First Consideration To Be Given to Improvement Of Streets

Service Director Frank Wilson, who is a month behind schedule in his spring street improvement program, told city council last night that plans for the city's annual cleanup had been shelved, temporarily, at least.

Ordinarily, service department trucks tour the city at this time of the year and haul away tin cans and other junk which the residents place at the curb.

"We have a big investment in our streets," the director explained, "and I believe we ought to give them our first consideration." Inclement weather has retarded street grading and patching operations.

Many persons this spring are having their winter's accumulation of junk hauled away promptly, Wilson added.

Several of the councilmen took occasion to call attention to the "deplorable condition" of some back yards in the sections nearest to town. Some old barns are filled with refuse, a haven for rats which overrun the neighborhood, Councilman Harry Vincent charged.

Such conditions are probably a violation of the city's health code, another councilman hinted, recommending police action.

A letter was received from R. L. Chaney of the Pennsylvania railroad, promising repairs to the Mill st. crossing in the near future.

ST. PAUL STUDENTS HOLD MAY CROWNING

Ann Frances Dugas was chosen by her classmates to crown the Blessed Virgin at the ceremony Sunday evening in Saint Paul's church. Mary Lou Haessly was her attendant; Jacqueline Henry, crownbearer; James Minamyer and William Potts, trainbearers.

The girls of the Eighth grade, in white caps and gowns, recited the "Our Fathers" of the "Living Rosary" which proceeded from the school to Our Blessed Mother's altar in church, to decorate it with roses and spring flowers. First communicants and children of the other grades recited the "Hail Marys"; the older girls, the Litany of the Blessed Virgin.

The Rev. Vincent J. Dougherty, C. M., preached the sermon.

TESTIMONY HEARD IN SHOOTING CASE

Defense Move to Strike Out Woman's Story Is Overruled

LISBON, June 2.—Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp today overruled a motion by defense counsel to have the testimony of Mrs. Raymond Porter, witness in the murder trial of William Redmelovich, 56, of Canton, declared incompetent and stricken from the court proceedings.

Mrs. Porter was the first of 10 witnesses to be called in the trial of Redmelovich, who is charged with fatally wounding Frank Ulrich, 43, in Salem on May 6.

Mrs. Porter, on direct examination, related Redmelovich, owner of the property in which she was living had come to her home with a three-day notice a few days before the shooting and that on the morning of May 6 came to her home and asked for the rent money and wanted to know why she hadn't moved out.

Mrs. Porter said that Ulrich, a boarder in her home, came and stood beside her in the doorway as she replied: "I'm moving out at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Is that soon enough? But I can't pay the rent."

Home Front Disputes Add Casualties Among Our Boys

So Writes War Analyst Who Stresses Dependence of Men at Front Upon Men Back Home

By DEWITT MACKENZIE We perhaps too often think of Uncle Sam's fighting-machine solely in terms of the men who are on actual combat service in the army, the navy and the air-force.

That probably is natural, for they are the ones who risk their lives on the firing line in defense of their country. Still they're only part of the machine. They are an absolutely vital part, of course, but behind them and integrated with them are many parts which also are essential to make the vast machine run.

The soldiers and sailors and airmen are the experts who wield the instruments of death against the enemy. But other elements of the machine have to equip and maintain the fighting men or the battle front will collapse.

Other Warriors A thousand and one industries fabricate the armaments; farmers produce food; various units transport these essentials to the theater of war by land and sea and air, and still another goes down into the dark caverns of the earth and produces—with arduous labor and great danger—the coal without which much war manufacturing must cease and transport must be disrupted.

Failure of any one of these units may mean stoppage of the whole machine. It may mean defeat! At best it's likely to protract the

SUB SINKINGS SET RECORD IN MONTH OF MAY

U-boats In Atlantic Show Decided Increase In Last Two Months

CONVOY SUPPORT SHOWING RESULTS

Sharp Reduction In Shipping Losses Revealed By Admiralty

(By Associated Press) LONDON, June 2.—Increasingly deadly Allied convoy escort services sank more enemy submarines in May than in any other month of the war and in the past two months the number of operating U-boats in the Atlantic appears to have decreased, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared today.

He told the house of commons that in the last 12 months the total enemy submarines sent to the bottom exceeded the number sunk in all of the previous war period and that in the last six months the rate of destruction was 25 per cent above the previous half year.

He said it appeared the number of sea marauders sent to the bottom during the month just ended was greater than the Germans could produce in all the facilities available to them.

Besides those sunk a large number of the sea prowlers were damaged in various attacks by Allied naval and air attacks, Alexander reported.

In the past two months, he asserted, the number of U-boats in Atlantic waters appears to have decreased. This, he said, no doubt was due to more than one cause, but the principal one undoubtedly was due to the rising rate of this destruction.

His statement disclosed that in April and May merchant shipping losses were reduced below the level of the three months from December to February after heavy losses in March.

(A DNE report broadcast today from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press listed 65 British and American merchantmen, totaling 380,000 tons, as sunk in May by Nazi submarines. This was a drastic reduction compared with the usual monthly totals issued by the Germans.

(The German summary also credited Nazi aircraft with sinking an additional 50,000 tons of Allied shipping in May.)

COUNTY AGENT TO SEEK FARM LABOR

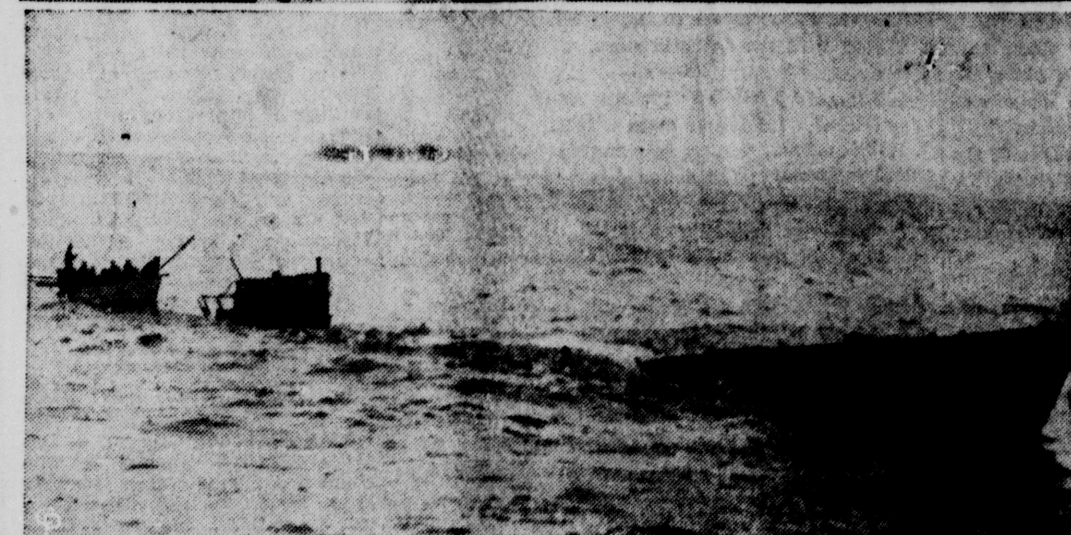

Willis J. Boone of Winona has been employed to assist County Extension Agent Floyd Lower with farm labor work this summer under a recent act of congress appropriating funds for this purpose.

The congressional act assigned to the agricultural extension service most of the responsibility of attempting to meet the farm labor shortage. The work is to be done in cooperation with the United States Employment Service and other federal agencies.

Miss Ruth Morris has been employed to assist as office secretary for the farm labor work.

Everything possible will be done to provide necessary farm help but it will be impossible to entirely meet the demands, Lower stated. Farmers in need of help which cannot be provided within the local community are urged to register by calling at the extension office at the court house in Lisbon or by writing to Lower. Persons who may be available for any kind of farm work are asked to register. Strawberry harvest will begin in about two weeks and will be the first seasonal work for which a number of day laborers are required.

CHURCH SESSION ENDORSES CURFEW

Presbyterians Call Upon Council for Enactment Of Legislation

City council last night received a letter from the session of the Presbyterian church endorsing the curfew law which council is considering for adoption.

The proposed ordinance is still being considered by Solicitor Henry L. Reese and members of the council ordinance committee. A study is being made by curfew laws passed by other communities as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency.

In giving the proposed Salem plan its endorsement, the church letter said, in part: "We want you to know that we heartily endorse any further move in this direction." It was signed by Dr. Raymond D. Walter, moderator, T. A. Mercer, clerk, and 13 other members of the session.

A similar letter of commendation was received from the Spencer class of the same church, of which Mrs. Mildred Hodge is the president.

CITY POLICE RADIO ON THE BEAM AGAIN

With police "on the beam again" in the operation of the police department's two-way radio outfit, city council last night took steps toward employing a licensed chief operator to maintain the station and keep it in working order.

Plans are to employ J. K. Young, a Warren radio engineer, to maintain the system at a 15 a month salary. Young, who performs a similar job for the city of Warren, recently put the Salem department's short-wave outfit back in operating condition for 45.

A motion by Councilmen Arch Wentz and Charles Cavanaugh last night instructed the solicitor to prepare legislation necessary to employ a chief radio operator.

RECEIVES AWARD OF PURPLE HEART

Daniel F. Fromm, Killed In Action, Is Honored Posthumously

The Purple Heart medal has been awarded posthumously to Pvt. Daniel Frank Fromm, son of Mrs. Katherine Uyselt, 1009 E. Third st., who lost his life as the result of enemy action in the North Atlantic Feb. 3.

Presentation of the medal to the soldier's mother was made by the government by means of a special delivery package, received yesterday. A certificate of valor accompanied the medal.

Pvt. Fromm, who was 20, was first reported to be missing in action after an Atlantic sinking. Later the adjutant general's office notified the boy's mother that he lost his life as the result of a sinking by the enemy.

The Salem soldier, who had been in the army seven months at the time, is believed to have been on board one of two cargo-passenger boats which the government admitted were torpedoed in the North Atlantic early in February. Pvt. Fromm had worked here for the E. W. Bliss Co.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE HALTED BY ORDER OF WLB

Board Refuses to Sanction Any Pact Reached by "Strike Coercion"

OPERATORS, UNION HAVE NO COMMENT

Work Stoppages Are Held As Violations of No-Strike Pledge

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 2.—The War Labor board checked the coal mine walkout back to President Roosevelt today "for such action as he deems appropriate" and told the disputing parties to stop their contract negotiations.

UMW President John L. Lewis and the operators' representatives had just begun on fresh efforts to settle their dispute, which has resulted in half a million miners staying away from work in the war vital industry.

However, said the board unanimously, "any agreement on the issues by the parties while the workers are on strike" and the negotiations are subject to "strike coercion" will not be considered or approved.

Make No Comment The miners and the operators, informed of the board's order, went back into joint session immediately without making any comment. They had suspended meeting briefly while waiting for an expected announcement from the board.

A short time later they recessed at 2 p. m.

The text of the telegram: "By unanimous vote of the National War Labor board the board declares that the existing strikes and stoppages of work in the nation's coal fields constitute an unwarranted violation of the no-strike pledge and a defiance of the board's directive order of May 25, 1943."

"Therefore in conformance with the procedures of the War Labor board which have been uniformly applied in all past cases in which either party violated the no-strike, no-lockout pledge and defied a directive order of the board it is hereby directed that all negotiations between the parties on the issues referred to them by the directive order of May 25, 1943, in this case shall cease immediately until the mine workers return to work in compliance with the board's directive order of May 25, 1943."

"The board further notifies the parties that any agreement on the issues reached by the parties while the workers are on strike and under the pressure of this strike coercion will not be considered or approved by the board. The board is referring this case to the President for such action as he deems appropriate."

Address To Both Sides The message was addressed to Lewis, Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producing association; Charles O'Neill, chairman of the operators' negotiating committee.

The May 25 directive ordered resumption of collective bargaining on the major issues, such as portal-to-portal pay, the six-day week.

DOCTOR OF 'QUINTS' DIES IN NORTH BAY

Allan Roy Dafoe, 60, stricken with Pneumonia, Succumbs In Hospital

NORTH BAY, Ontario, June 2.—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, former physician to the Dionne quintuplets, died today in a hospital here. He was 60 years old.

Dr. Dafoe had returned to his tional prominence nine years ago when he attended the quintuplets at birth, died at 11 a. m., five minutes after he had been admitted to the hospital.

Dr. D. A. Campbell of North Bay, who was at the bedside, said death was due to pneumonia.

Dr. Dafoe had returned to his home at Callander from Toronto yesterday morning.

Two years ago—on April 14, 1941—Dr. Dafoe underwent a major operation, the nature of which was not disclosed.

It was on Feb. 14, 1942, that Dr. Dafoe finally gave up his connection with the quintuplets. He offered his resignation to Premier Mitchell Hepburn, then premier of Ontario, "because his position has been made almost impossible by reason of the fact that the children are not allowed to speak English." Later the physician said he quit because "I felt that my usefulness had come to an end."

THE TEAM THAT'S ROLLING

Completion of Japan's defeat on Attu is heady news for the military muscle men in Tokyo. The island itself can't be called a critical battlefield, but what has happened there—what happened previously on Guadalcanal and in New Guinea—is more critical for the Japanese than any battlefield.

They are learning, with their companions in treachery, the Germans and Italians, that it is impossible for them to hold their advanced positions. The Axis is like a spider whose legs are being chopped off a joint at a time. Today it is Tunisia and Attu. Tomorrow it will be Sicily and Kiska. Perhaps day after tomorrow it will be Burma and Norway.

Enthusiasts in this country—and no doubt in Great Britain, too—are being warned against feeling too good about so-called minor successes. They are being told these mean almost nothing relative to the whole war. But that is true only from a strictly material point of view.

Morally, it is worth a great deal to the Allied side to know that it is doing what it wants to do and that the Germans and Japanese now have the nerve-racking job of explaining to themselves why, if they are so good, they aren't winning. The Allies know all about that; they specialized in it from 1939 to the beginning of Rommel's retreat in Egypt.

They had no solace but to dream of the day when they would catch up in manpower and fighting equipment—of the day when they would start rolling. And now they are rolling, an advantage that every football fan can understand as clearly as the thrill of first down and goal to go. It's a pity the Germans and the Japanese, who know nothing about football, can't understand it just as clearly; it would give them nervous prostration.

OPEN LETTER ON STRIKERS

Every newspaper in this country has been receiving letters from service men about strikes and strikers. In many cases, the letters have been published. No one has a better right to his opinion about stopping work in the middle of a war than the fellow who may get shot and killed as the result.

Some of the letters, for one reason or another, can't be published, though they may contain excellent reasoning. For instance, here is a passage from one letter that can't be published because of certain information it contains that the writer, a sailor, wouldn't be permitted to reveal for general publication.

"In Rhode Island and the coastal states," says the writer, "things are not as cheerful as they are here in Ohio. They have no lights at night and not near as much food, gasoline and oil as the people in this part of the country have. Another thing they have less of is strikes. Perhaps the people along the coast feel the war is nearer than people in the central states. Maybe they are smarter in this respect."

Much as it galls any newspaper on this side of the Appalachian range to concede that easterners are smarter in any respect, sailor, you may be right. If they're not smarter, at least they're not being quite so dumb about work stoppages in wartime.

TEMPEST IN A SAMOVER

The twistings and turnings of the controversies stirred by this government's dealings with Russia are complicated, but two general classes of argument have emerged from the uproar.

Typical of one class is the protest lodged in national headquarters of American Legion against "Mission To Moscow" by members of the Ohio department's executive committee. This is the moving picture inspired by the book of that name written by Joseph E. Davies, who went to Russia as a special investigator for President Roosevelt and now occupies the role of special advocate for the Stalin regime and confidential messenger between the heads of the two governments. The debate in this class is between those who do and do not have an open mind about the Soviet Union.

The other class contains those who favor Stalin as against Trotsky's followers and vice versa. This is a strange debate to be going on in the United States, but these are strange times. Announcement of the dissolution of the Communist International has brought all the Marxian ideologists out of the woodwork in full fury, intent on getting even with someone because it looks as though the Stalin regime had disinherited them for keeps this time.

There is no solution for these ideological complications, but while the argument rages in this country the least the Soviet Union could do under the rule of reciprocity is to dramatize for public entertainment a book by Ambassador Litvinov (as soon as he can write one) glorifying the United States and wading into the conflict of ideas between the Democrats and Republicans. By the time the Russians had argued about that and the Democratic and Republican sympathizers in Russia had chewed each other's ears off it probably would be plain that nations don't stand together because they love each other and agree 100 percent on everything—or even on anything. They stand together because they cannot afford to stand apart and are smart enough to know it. That would be an important discovery.

OUR BLESSING IN DISGUISE

While there is no assurance in the floundering of the government that food rationing is going to be handled in this country with the competency that the English have mustered, there is comfort in the fact that the English have been enjoying excellent health on their much shorter rations.

Statistics of a life insurance company report that last year's death rate of 11.6 per 1,000 persons was the lowest since the beginning of the war and the same as in 1938. Only once previously, in 1930, has the death rate fallen below that figure. Inside the general average, moreover, are such significant details as a 10 percent decline in deaths from diabetes and a substantial decrease in deaths from ailments closely connected with high blood pressure, a condition often alleviated by dietary restriction, with a consequent slowing down of the progress of the disease.

Another condition, even more important than anything happening to adults with special illnesses to be cared for, is the prevailing good health of English infants and children, not necessarily as the result of eating less but probably as the result of the way England has used rationing to encourage its people to eat more of the right things and less of some of the foods that were more traditional than nutritional.

It's not the kind of information that will help the price of potatoes, cash a blue stamp, or turn macaroni into sirloin steak, but it won't hurt that deeply distressed minority of aggressive eaters who are determined not to starve to death, even if somebody else must risk it to keep them eating in the style to which they are accustomed.

Physician Must Find Out About You

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IN ORDER to explain the point of view of your physician while he is carrying out the procedure of trying to find out what is the matter with you and what he had best do for you, let me go a little further into the subject of the history, which we discussed briefly yesterday.

Dr. Clendening will answer Questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The history, or as the physician calls it, the anamnesis, is the record of the patient's symptoms, past illnesses and hereditary background as the patient is able to explain it himself. Every physician worthy of the name not only obtains this history from his patient, but he makes a written record of it for his permanent files, to which is added the results of the physical examinations.

The complete record of the patient falls into the following divisions:

1. History.
2. Physical examination.
3. Laboratory examination (microscopic and chemical examinations of urine, blood and other body fluids).
4. X-ray examination (if indicated).
5. Special examinations (such as the electrocardiographic examination of the heart, basal metabolism, etc.).
6. Treatment recommended.

We will discuss these headings in detail from time to time during the ensuing weeks. This is purely educational—an endeavor to make you acquainted and sympathetic with the mental processes your doctor goes through in trying to understand your case.

The history consists in several subdivisions. First, the purely statistical data: Your name, address, age, telephone number, social status and your occupation. Social status (single, married, divorced or widowed), occupation and are really very important, especially age, because certain diseases are automatically ruled out at certain ages. Under social status you may remember that

FATHERS WILL DON UNIFORMS IN FALL

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Dependency alone will be virtually eliminated by the end of this year as a reason for keeping fathers out of uniform, Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt indicated yesterday.

The armed forces will need so many men, he said, that only 22 of every 100 able-bodied fathers still will be deferred at the end of the 1943 because their families need their support.

General induction of family heads is due to start August 1. A navy announcement yesterday lowering physical standards for draftees may slow up inductions of fathers slightly. McNutt said, but he emphasized that even if the army follows suit in adopting new standards the general effect on father induction will be "only a delay."

Inductions have been proceeding at about 300,000 a month. If this rate is continued in 1944, McNutt said it would be necessary to lower physical requirements still further, crop the minimum draft age below 18 years, or raise it above the present maximum of 37 in the order named.

Boost Rail Loads

CLEVELAND, June 2.—Curtailed coast shipping and lack of space on lake carriers will increase rail loads from the balance of 1943 in the commerce department's fourth region, a government economist declared today.

Predicting heavier movements of iron ore and limestone, Robert Whaley, regional business consultant for the commerce department, declared war-bus blast furnaces would demand an increased supply of materials.

Burdened lake freighters normally transport such materials but are overloaded and railroads must absorb some of the overflow, Whaley said in his second quarterly report.

EUGENE, Ore.—Oregon farm prices have risen 98 per cent above the 1935-39 level, while farm costs have gone up 31 per cent, according to "Agricultural Situation and Outlook" published by the Oregon State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Demands for action now on a proposed anti-strike law sounded loudly in congress today as a shutdown of the nation's coal mines over a wage dispute threatened to paralyze the munitions-making steel industry.

"There is no sense waiting any longer," said Chairman May (D-Ky) of the military affairs committee and Speaker Rayburn gave permission for the house to call up later today the Smith-Connally bill outlawing strikes in government-operated plants. It would apply to the mines if enacted.

Meanwhile mine union chief John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators took another stab at cross-the-table bargaining in hopes of compromising their differences over the union's demands for a $2 a day pay boost.

A shortage in gasoline brought stern measures from government authorities. An attack on black market dealers in commercial "T" rations is about to be undertaken by the Office of Defense Transportation. The move follows a cut in B and C ration coupons from three to two gallons necessitated by the eastern seaboard famine. The "T" stickers for taxis, buses and trucks, will have a different marking, undisclosed until they are issued, to thwart counterfeiters, an ODT spokesman revealed.

World trade continued the prime topic in the senate. The majority forecast passage late today of legislation continuing the administration's right to negotiate international trade agreements which Secretary of State Hull envisages as a keystone in the peace.

Ohio's two Republican senators lined up on opposite sides as administration forces beat off two attempts to amend legislation. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati voted for Republican sponsored amendments to permit congress to end the agreements six months after the war and to ban future pacts unless approved by congress. Sen. Harold M. Burton of Cleveland voted against both.

The senate also set in motion machinery for final congressional approval of the pay-as-you-go tax bill which passed the house yesterday.

Postmaster Retires

CLEVELAND, June 2.—Michael F. O'Donnell retires as Cleveland postmaster July 1 at half pay of $4,500 a year. Postmaster General Frank C. Walker accepted his resignation "with regrets and best wishes."

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

To Ann, it didn't seem at all like Christmas Eve. Even though the big store of Marks-Park Avenue where she worked as salesgirl had every possible evidence of

From her counter, she could see the great, glittering tree just inside the main doors. Holly and silver tinsel hung everywhere. Christmas carols rang bravely through the loud speaker. There was the last-minute rush of excited shoppers. Frantically she handed out packages that were wrapped in red or green paper and tied with ribbon printed with gay red bells.

Christmas, she thought, was in the spirit. It wasn't just that she was dead beat, but worried too. About her job, and the possible loss of it, for she had just got the disturbing news that the sales-force was to be cut down right after the holidays. She had a persistent premonition that on her the axe would fall. The section manager had it in for her. He was a bit of a Lethario out of business hours. Taken air about her that made her different from the other salesgirls in her department, he had tried to date her. She hadn't responded. Since then, in petty little ways, he had shown resentment.

She was worried about her sister too. Julia and she were quite alone in the world. Julia was a stewardess (or hostess) on one of the airlines on the New York-Miami run. Because of the increasing demands of the defense program, plane service on her run might soon be radically cut down. Fully trained, Julia could of course become a nurse in one of the Services, Ann knew. But that meant working for lesser pay, and Julia—who had a keen eye to the main chance, and a perennial grudge against fate, anyhow—didn't want that.

Then there was the problem of Vince Ogden too. Big, good-natured Vince was all right as a friend. But nothing more. Ann had begun to fear that he wanted more than friendship. That Vince was in love with her. Because he had inherited plenty of money, and was a generous spender, Julia was his ally now.

"Ann, you can hook him, and we'll be on Easy Street!" the practical-minded elder sister would declare. "With your looks, you're a fool to slave as a salesgirl! Marry him, and our worries will be over!"

"What about my happiness?" Ann would ask. "We're as different as the poles. And I'm not the least in love with Vince."

"Ho! Love doesn't last anyway. Don't be a romantic fool! Look at all the divorces among couples who were wild about each other in the beginning! It all boils down to a humdrum tune. But there's music in it if there's money! And with plenty of variations!" Julia had winked at Ann meaningly. "Take my tip and grab yourself a future while you got the opportunity!"

That kind of talk made Ann sick to the soul. She would say: "What about Vince's side? Can't you see it would be horribly unfair to marry him without loving him? He doesn't deserve a one-sided bargain!"

"Phooey! He's born to be made a fool of, I'll say! You can twist him round your little finger if you're clever. Mark my words, Ann—a poor girl can't afford a conscience as sensitive as yours! It's a tough, hard world we're living in today. This is your first real chance to marry comfortably, and assure our futures. Remember, you won't always be twenty!"

Our futures, thought Ann. How could Julia be so selfish and hard? Of course her job was arduous—and, in a sense, risky. But being a salesgirl and on your feet all day long was no picnic either. If only they could see eye to eye, and hang together!

The closing bell rang loudly, but still there were customers to be served. She looked at the great clock on the wall. The Ellsmore agency which provided models for commercial photography was fortunately going to stay open a little late this Christmas Eve. Ann had had the foresight to go there a few days ago—knowing that a job as photographic model paid far better than her present one. She'd been fortunate that the agency had consented to make tests of her. Tonight they would be ready. Doubly, because of the bad news about the sales-force here being cut down after New Year's, she prayed that she was "photogenic"—that the agency might engage her!

It was after six o'clock when she got there. The customary Christmas Eve excitement was well under way. The scene was kaleidoscopic. The offices alive with beautiful girls. Possessively proud, their boy-friends were calling for them. Some of the Ellsmore models had already changed into evening clothes. Others carried large cardboard hat-boxes with the gowns they would wear tonight in them—the creations they would display at the Stork Club, and El Morocco, and Monte Carlo, and the famous "21," and the night-clubs on Broadway.

Through an open door, Ann could see from the waiting-room that in one of the small offices, a temporary bar had been set up! And was doing plenty of business. The receptionist wasn't at her usual desk. She was in there. Fearful about the results of the photographic tests. Ann waited....

Julia would be in their one-room-and-bath apartment up on West 80th Street, by now. Ann realized that her sister was to be with her this Christmas Eve. Tomorrow night she would rejoin her plane at LaGuardia airport. Ann had formulated no special plans for this evening. She'd had invitations for herself—but she had declined. She had tickets for the midnight services in St. Patrick's Cathedral. As always, that would be calming and beautiful.

Finally the receptionist returned.

"This is your first real chance to marry comfortably," Julia assured Ann.

Ann went to her desk. "I was wondering," she faltered, "if my tests came out all right?"

Ensued a nerve-racking interim. So much hung in the balance! It was only a matter of minutes, but it seemed hours to Ann. Then the receptionist was beckoning her.

"I'm sorry, Miss Foster," the young woman told her, "but your pictures didn't turn out so good, it seems. Mr. Ellmore says he can't use you. Seems that you're not the photogenic type." She looked sympathetically at Ann.

Well, that was that. No use to grieve. Presently Ann was in the packed subway, and then walking the few blocks to the little apartment near the Hudson River.

She sat, in its one window, on the fifth floor, that Julia had lighted the candles on the little Christmas tree she had bought. It was a beacon of welcome. She went up in the small self-service elevator. Put her key in the door.

Immediately she was caught in somebody's arms. Caught and kissed soundly under the mistletoe.... by Vince Ogden.... with Julia smiling behind him....

Telephone Gossip Hurts War Effort

Have you ever noticed, it always seems to be the "other woman"—not you!—who keeps you talking on the telephone for half an hour at a time when there is a hostful of things which ought to be done right away.

Maybe the "other woman's" gossip over the back fence doesn't have much effect on the war effort. But when she starts gossiping over the telephone it creates a situation which has an effect on the entire community—particularly in wartime. And that effect is multiplied if the telephone is on a party line. A long call on your telephone not only ties up your own line, but it may tie up other lines so that important calls can't go through quickly.

Whether you have a private line or a party line you can help by making only necessary calls these days and by keeping all calls brief. And if you are on a party line, let the Golden Rule be your guide in order that everybody entitled to use the line may have a fair share of it. Don't let the "other woman" tie you up in half-hour "visits". Discourage the children from carrying on lengthy conversations, or doing their homework, over the telephone with schoolmates. Even when doing something as simple as calling the store, have a list ready so that you don't tie up the lines while you figure what you want.

And when you hear a click, indicating that another party on the line wants to make a call, bring the conversation to an end as quickly as possible, just as you would want the other party to do if you had to make a call.

Sees Long War

CAMBRIDGE, June 2. — U. S. Sen. Harold H. Burton thinks America will have to fight two to four more years of war.

The Cleveland Republican, in an address dedicating the Fletcher General hospital for war wounded near here, said he thought the present conflict would last until possibly 1947.

The hospital consists of 125 buildings and was built at a cost of $4,000,000. It is equipped with 1,520 beds.

WOODSMAN, SPARE THAT ROBIN'S NEST

FORT ATKINSON, Wis.—Gas and Electric Company service men "topped" a big tree in front of the Dr. C. W. Umland residence yesterday. In the top of that tree was a robin's nest and in that robin's nest were two little robins. Did the workmen top the tree and destroy the nest and the little birds? They did not. They took that nest out of the top of that large tree and placed it in a smaller tree, tied it securely on a limb and waited. You guessed it, the mother bird found the new location of her nest and began feeding the young as though nothing had happened.

FORETELLS WRONG END FOR HIS OWN STORY

STOCKHOLM — Soon after a comely young woman was found choked to death, Copenhagen police began to receive letters about the case signed "Henry". Each one ended, "You will never catch me."

The police immediately traced the typewriter through a defect in one of the keys and arrested a 21-year-old Dane. The young student confessed the slaying. Two days before the murder he had written a short story for a Danish weekly magazine foretelling the entire case. The story, however, ended in suicide instead of arrest.

Club To Discuss Preserving Foods For Winter Meals

The importance of dehydration and brining to preserve foods now for next winter's meals will be discussed at the Lions club Health For Victory club nutrition class session at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Salem high school auditorium.

Miss Dorothy Trowbridge, home economist expert, again will have charge. A chapter presentation for the local health unit also is planned. More than 300 Salem women are enrolled in the class.

Dehydration is one of the oldest known methods of preserving foods. Quick-freeze plants were scarce, so our pioneer homemakers dried their surplus fruits and vegetables out in the sun.

Since then dehydration, or drying, has been the subject of extensive research and it has been found that foods are more healthful when not over-exposed to the sun. It also has been determined that vegetables freeze better if they are blanching before being dehydrated.

At the "Health For Victory meeting," Miss Trowbridge will discuss the latest methods of drying foods indoors. Vegetables best suited for dehydration are corn, beans, peas, carrots and okra. The best fruits are apples, pears, peaches and apricots. Strawberries do not dry well. Blackberries, blackberries, gooseberries and raspberries are excellent for drying.

The six steps necessary for best results will be described and demonstrated, including the proper selection of fruits and vegetables, when to dry, when and how to blanch, types of dehydrators which may be used, how much heat is required and how and where to store the dried foods.

The discussion of brining will center around two methods: Dry salt and wet salt. The home economist will explain how to brine cabbage, turnips and other foods, pointing out the proper procedure and describing the necessary equipment.

Nine members were present and projects for the year were chosen. It was decided that the meetings be held every two weeks in the various homes of the members.

The June meeting will be held June 13 at the home of Ronald Gause.

According to all indications, over 1000 boys and girls will be members of 4-H clubs in Columbiana county this year. At present there are 32 agricultural clubs, 45 home economics clubs, and one mixed club already organized.

This compares with 21 agricultural and 37 home economics club organized in 1942. For the first time, one or more 4-H clubs have been organized in each township in the county. The largest enrollment in history was in 1939 at which time there were 985 boys and girls enrolled. This year's enrollment should well exceed this number.

Each club part each 4-H club member may go in helping to produce food and conserve food and clothing will not materially increase the war effort but with the million and a half boys and girls over the country doing the same thing, much can be accomplished. Columbiana county members are doing their part in this total program.

Boys and girls are especially interested in the garden program with a great increase in garden projects this year. Girls are more interested in food preservation than the care and repair of clothing. As usual there are quite a number of boys taking dairy projects. Practically all of the projects carried by boys this year will be food production projects which, in addition to those mentioned above, will include pork production, beef, poultry and eggs, sheep, and potatoes.

MUSELIER NAMED ALGIERS DEPUTY

Marcel Peyrouton Submits Resignation As Governor General

(By Associated Press) ALGIERS, June 2.—Gen. Henri Giraud, appointed vice Admiral Muselier deputy to himself as commander-in-chief and charged with maintaining order in Algiers and vicinity today in the midst of confusion and strain attending the birth pangs of the new French governing body.

This appointment followed a strange exchange of letters in which Marcel Peyrouton, who once signed an order for the arrest of Gen. Charles DeGaulle, admitted his double-barreled resignation to DeGaulle and Giraud from his post as governor general in Algeria in response to DeGaulle's demands for a housecleaning.

Adds To Tension The appointment of Muselier, former member of the Fighting French hierarchy who later broke with DeGaulle and is now regarded as his latter opponent, was expected to add to the increasing tension between the French factions which only Monday came together in a new executive committee for the purpose of giving unified direction to the French war effort.

DeGaulle had Muselier under house arrest in London at one time after Muselier had taken the lead in the Fighting French occupation of St. Pierre and Miquelon, islands off the Newfoundland coast. He is now the chief policeman of the district in which DeGaulle lives.

Peyrouton, one of the controversial figures of the North African situation who once served Vichy as minister of interior and then as ambassador in Argentina, offered his resignation yesterday both to DeGaulle and Giraud as joint presidents of the executive committee which is to govern liberated Frenchmen and French territory until France is freed.

He asked both to give him back his rank of captain in the colonial infantry reserve.

Two Replies He got a double-barreled reply. DeGaulle accepted the resignation promptly and assigned him to Syria. Giraud accepted the resignation but asked him to hold on to his job for the time being.

But DeGaulle got the jump on Giraud in making his reply public. He gave it out to foreign correspondents and it was spread throughout the world. Giraud's reply appeared only in the local press.

(Merill Mueller, NBC correspondent, in a broadcast from Algiers to day, said DeGaulle's action "has roused Giraud as nothing else has since he took over in North Africa.")

DeGaulle was reported to be insisting upon an immediate purge of officials whom he considers pro-Vichy, and Peyrouton was said to be on his list.

Giraud was pictured as favoring such a purge, but insisting that it was a committee problem and should be considered by it as a whole.

Columbiana Army Officer, On Leave, Visits With Family

COLUMBIANA, June 1.—Tanned and healthy despite gruelling experiences of jungle fighting in New Guinea, Major William T. Watson of the Australian Imperial forces, is back home here to visit his wife, Mae, and their children, Willa Mae, aged 12, and William C., aged eight, of the Columbiana-New Waterford road.

Major Watson, enjoying his first leave since his enlistment in September, 1939, was awarded the Distinguished Service order, second highest military decoration of the British empire.

The major, reluctant to relate his experiences, admits, however, that he killed "a few" Japs, including a high-ranking officer.

He declared that the Japanese are great jungle fighters, but added that they have met their match in the Australians and Americans.

"With the right kind of equipment and adequate supplies we will drive them out of the South Pacific sooner than most people believe," Major Watson said.

The major, a veteran of the first World war, was at home when World War II began about four years ago. In less than a month, he turned up at Sydney, Australia, and joined the militia.

Because of his knowledge of the New Guinea territory, Watson was transferred in June, 1940, to the AIF and was commissioned a captain. He was sent to Port Moresby, New Guinea, to organize a company of natives and whites familiar with the jungles.

After months of rigorous training, Watson's company was sent on foot over the Owen Stanley mountains to guard Buna and Gona. When the Jap invasion forces arrived at those two points in July, 1942, his outfit was chased back over the mountains to Port Moresby.

When Lieut.-Col. W. T. Owen of the Australian forces was killed in the battle for Port Moresby, Watson assumed command and, with a numerically inferior force, held the enemy until re-enforcements arrived. This act won him the Distinguished Service order and a promotion to major.

Major Watson was sent back to headquarters and was offered a comfortable office job, but refused it and returning to the jungles, participated in the subsequent campaign that drove the Japs out of the Papua peninsula. His outfit was the first to make contact with the Japs at both Buna and Gona.

It was his escapades that won for Kansas the epithet "Bloody Kansas," and his siege and burning of Lawrence presents one of the most impressive screen spectacles.

Coming to the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday is the technicolor film, "My Friend Flicka," with Roddy McDowall starred in the film version of a boy and his horse. Rita Johnson and Preston Foster are also starred.

"Young and Willing," the madcap experiences of six young stage aspirants, will be at the Grand for the last time tonight. Involved in the hilarious proceedings are three young girls, Susan Hayward, Martha O'Driscoll and Barbara Britten, and three boys, William Holden, Eddie Bracken and Jim Brown.

A double feature, "The Falcon Strikes Back" and "Fighting Buckaroo" is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Grand.

Mild Liquor Rush

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Ohioans greeted the first day of liquor rationing with a mild rush to state-owned stores yesterday and found on the list of whiskies available popular brands which have been a parity in recent months. Lanes formed in front of many retail stores before they opened at 1 p. m., as Ohioans bought packaged whisky for the first time since May 13 when sales were suspended to set up rationing machinery. ITALIAN ISLAND IS BOMBED AGAIN

Pantelleria Is Blasted; Barracks, Batteries Are Damaged

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 2.—Allied naval forces bombarded the Italian island of Pantelleria yesterday afternoon, scoring hits on barracks and artillery batteries, Allied headquarters announced today. It was the second bombardment of the island in less than 48 hours, the communique disclosed, Allied warships having blasted away at the same target the night of May 30.

(The Italian communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said buildings on Pantelleria were seriously damaged by the naval bombardment yesterday, but declared Italian artillery forced the warships to "interrupt the bombardment" and severely damaged one destroyer in the formation.)

(Repeated Allied air raids caused still further heavy destruction, said the communique, which listed Naples, Paola, on the coast 140 miles to the south, as well as points in Sicily and Sardinia, as the latest targets of Allied bombers. Twelve of the raiders were shot down, the communique declared. It listed five dead and 28 injured at Portici, near Naples, and three dead and five injured at Paola, Palermo and Marsala as air raid victims.)

American warplanes continued to smash at both Pantelleria and Sardinia, the Allied bulletin said. Mitchell and Marauder medium bombers, accompanied by Lightning fighters, attacked ports and communications in bomb-shattered Sardinia yesterday, and hits were observed on supply vessels, railways and dock installations.

At the same time Warhawk fighters raided the seaplane base at Stagnone, Sicily, destroying several enemy aircraft at anchor, the communique declared. All but one of the Allied planes

EASE BUYING OF FARM EQUIPMENT

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The nation's farmers, looked to for more food than ever before, now may obtain the more ordinary equipment simply by saying they need it.

The War Production board coupled this new approach to the farm machinery problem last night with an order stepping up deliveries from produced to dealer.

Effective next Monday, a farmer may buy up to $25 worth of 178 specifically-named items by certifying to his dealer that he is a farmer and requires the materials now. If he wants to buy more than that, it can be arranged by having his county farm rationing committee sign the certificate—which is not a form and can be written on an ordinary piece of paper.

COX IS BIGGEST BASEBALL TRADER

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 2.—The biggest trader in baseball today? It's young Bill Cox, new owner of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Since purchasing the Phils less than four months ago, the wealthy 33-year-old lumberman has added 12 players, parted with four and disposed of some of his ready cash—all probably behind-the-scenes handiwork of Veteran Bucky Harris, new field generalissimo of the Phils and a "boy wonder" in his own time.

Even so, Cox's only counter part today is Branch Rickey, ex-St. Louis Card and present Brooklyn boss. In their one faceoff, young Cox walked off with four Dodgers without giving up a player at a time when master swapper Rickey had eyes on several Phils.

And yesterday in a straight swap of outfielders with the St. Louis Cards he obtained three players—Coaker Triplett, Buster Adams and Dahn Clay (who will report from the Cards' Rochester farm)—for his Danny Litwhiler, a hitter whose clouting has fallen off recently, and Earl Naylor.

Today there already were rumors another Phil deal, involving Triplett, was in the offing.

That's fast work, but Cox says speed as an essential to success is the only thing about baseball of which he is certain. And speed, he added, was the main asset of all three players obtained yesterday.

Cox, whose speed complex dates back to his interest in track, said that Clay, the only minor leaguer involved in the Card deal, "can run like everything." The inclusion of Clay may have been desirable because all four Philly infield regulars are subject to early draft calls.

College Rallies Off

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Conventions and other events held annually during the spring and summer months at Pennsylvania State college are wartime casualties this year. Lack of transportation facilities and crowded living conditions due to an influx of army trainees are largely responsible for keeping the usual thousands of visitors from this campus.

In the first three weeks of this season, Washington's Bob Johnson threw out three men at the plate, two at third base and one at second from his left field position.

Eddie Turchin, Cleveland Indians' rookie, speaks and understands six languages.

INDIANS DESCEND INTO FIFTH PLACE AS NATS WIN, 3-2

Tribe Has Won Only Two Of Nine Road Games; Play Again Tonight

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Cleveland Indians were out of the American league's first division today—a definite indication that summer is near.

Manager Lou Boudreau's self-styled "team to beat" for the pennant lost to the Washington Nationals 3 to 2 in 10 innings last night and dropped to fifth place. A victory would have moved the Tribe into a second place deadlock with the Nats, two games behind the pace-setting New York Yankees.

A little more than a week ago the same Indians topped the circuit, but they have won only two of their nine eastern engagements.

Relief Pitcher Ray Poat allowed only one hit in the three innings he worked but his wildness enabled the lone hit to produce the winning run in the overtime session.

Poat walked Alex Kampouris and Jake Early after retiring two batters and Substitute Shortstop Ellis Clary singled home the deciding tally.

The Indians close the series with another after-dark contest tonight. Jack Salveson, who seems destined for assignment as a regular starter, tries for his third straight triumph. Milo Candini, a rookie right hander, is his opponent.

SPORT CHATTER

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.)
NEW YORK, June 2.—Comeback record? Ernie Lanigan, the International League's star, figures this probably still stands as a record baseball comeback.

back in 1888 George Haddock, one-time battery partner of Connie Mack, lost 20 straight games for the Troy, N. Y., club. Then he went to Washington (and no cracks, please about the Senators still getting that kind of hurler), and lost two more there. . . . In 1891, 1892 the same man bounced back to become a 30-game winner with Boston in the American association and with Brooklyn . . . another record, maybe?

RIGHTEOUS INDIGNATION
When the Chicago White Sox blew into Philadelphia recently, the clubhouse attendant chalked the name "Frisch" on Jimmy Dykes' locker. . . . Jimmy promptly exploded. "Take that off of there," he belted. "I'm no Frisch. That Frisch is the kind of fellow who is mean to umpires and gets thrown out of ball games."

Orlo (Hoofbeats) Robinson, the pride of Winfield, Kas., is the sports editor of the Associated Press, replacing Herb Barker, who now has a bigger job of seeing that your favorite newspaper gets all the best news first. Helen Dettweiler, who won all the women's golf titles in the Washington, D. C., sector before she turned pro, is due to get her wings soon in the Ferry command.

RAIN'S MOVING ON, WEATHERMAN SAYS

Stagnation of Air Masses Over Midwest Area Is Blamed

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 2.—The heavy rains which caused disastrous floods in the Midwest and some southern states last month, the weather bureau said today, resulted from an unusual atmospheric condition—the stagnation of air masses over the area.

Ordinary air masses move from west to east in a fairly continuous flow. But early in May, an extensive mass of dense, cold polar air settled southward from the western Canadian provinces over the northwestern states and extended to the central great plains and upper Mississippi valley.

To the southward and southeastward of this polar mass, another mass of tropical air from the south moved in and the entire system became stagnant on a line extending roughly from lower Lake Huron and Michigan southwesterly to the Texas border.

The warm, moist, tropical air flowed up over the colder, denser, polar air, whereby the temperature was reduced to the condensation point and heavy rains ensued. The heaviest rains, the bureau reported, occurred over a rather narrow belt from central Indiana and Illinois southwesterlyward to central Oklahoma, where some weather stations reported a total rainfall between May 5 and May 22 of more than 12 inches.

This exceeded any previous rainfall between May 5 and May 22 of more than 12 inches.

This exceeded any previous rainfall of record for any month in some localities.

Latest reports to the weather bureau indicate that the period of stagnation is over and the cold air mass is dissipating.

Preliminary reports to the weather bureau indicate the May rainfall in Ohio was 176 per cent of normal.

The Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the United States in 1777.

The distress call "S.O.S." was adopted internationally in 1906.

HOME FRONT RIFTS COST MORE LIVES

Men On Fighting Fronts Are Dependent Upon Men At Home

war. That means unnecessary death and maiming in the fighting ranks, and additional suffering at home.

The fortunes of war sometimes are capricious, and a nation may encounter adversity which it is unable to ward off. Even an act of nature, like a flood, may play havoc with part of a war-machine. Rarely, however, does an all-important unit collapse as the result of a dispute among the people comprising it.

It would be a damnable tragedy if any quarrel should interfere with essential war production at this critical moment. That's irrespective of the merits of the argument on either side of a controversy.

There's nothing that counts excepting to keep the war-machine running and the flag flying. Even individual lives don't matter, much less material affairs.

Soldiers Can't Quit
A general and his staff can't quit because of difficulties with the troops. And the men in the ranks can't be thrown down their guns because they don't like the orders of the commander. The two of 'em have to make a go of it whether they want to or not.

In moments of national peril every man, woman and child is in the service of the country. Each one is in the same position as the fighting man, so far as duty is concerned. Time is a vital element in warfare. Stoppage of a single unit for even a few days may react disastrously on the battle front.

General Harold H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, declared yesterday at West Point that the Allies will end the war "and end it soon" by bombing. By ending it quicker "we will cut down the casualties."

What a grand goal to work for! But we could fall far short of it if our production were seriously impeded.

This is a great moment in the war. The United Nations are rushing at Hitler for the kill. We need every single ounce of striking power which we can develop. Delay in essential production might change the course of the war. It might easily protract the European upheaval, with consequent delay in undertaking major operations against Japan.

Apart from everything else, this means more casualties among our boys. Every minute counts. Thousands of men can die in the last thirty minutes before the cease fire is given. Even the final sixty seconds take their toll. They did in the last war and will in this.

Relief Cost Listed
LISBON, June 2.—Relief administration in the Portuguese county last month cost $879.75 for office personnel, the surplus department and the clearing house, according to a report filed with the commission today.

During that period $1,701.51 was expended on relief orders and approximately $300 worth of surplus clothing was given out, making a total of $2,001.51 received by 342 persons comprising a relief load of 154 cases.

fire from the escort vessels' guns. "Round after round was pumped into the undersea raider, and the after part of the conning tower was completely torn away. Then, just as the Spencer was on the point of ramming, the fire from the submarine suddenly ceased, and many members of her crew were observed abandoning ship through the conning tower.

"The cutter turned aside and waited, ready to resume the assault; but the battle was over. The U-boat's propellers stopped, she dropped lower in the water, then rapidly plummeted down.

"Circling, the Spencer picked up more than 40 submarine crew members who were floating in the water, supported by rafts and life belts. Locating the U-boat's survivors was not difficult; some were on rafts, the others adrift, but all of them safely supported by their escape lings which were used as life belts.

Nevertheless, as they awaited rescue, they acted in a very hysterical manner, shouting and waving arms so frantically that no doubt was left as to their existence and location. The sea was smooth, there was a moderate breeze and conditions were generally fair. No doubt the depth charges and heavy gunfire had unnerved them; several were still hysterical on coming aboard. All prisoners were impressed by the deadliness of the depth charges. Several threw up their hands and exclaimed, "water-bombs; terrible; terrible!"

And, the navy added, now the men of the Spencer's crew can shave—"they had sworn not to shave until their ship had a positive submarine sinking to her credit."

Unconstitutional
COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Ohio supreme court today declared unconstitutional a Cincinnati municipal ordinance regulating the opening and closing hours of barber shops.

The court found that the ordinance was not a sanitary measure, bore no real or substantial relation to the health, safety, morals or general welfare of the public, and was not a valid exercise of the city's police power.

The court's decision reversed rulings of the lower courts in which Arthur Correll of Cincinnati had been fined $15 and costs for keeping his barber shop open after 7 p. m., in violation of the ordinance.

SENATE PREPARES TAX PROGRAM O.K.

Congressional Leaders Confident Plan Will Become Law

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 2.—With a certainty reserved only for death and taxes, the senate set the machinery in motion today for final congressional approval of compromise legislation putting all taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Congressional leaders are confident that once legislative formalities are completed, President Roosevelt will sign the bill—or at least let it become law—with these practical results to the average taxpayer:

He will find himself for the first time in his life paying the federal taxes on his income as he earns it, either through a 20 per cent payroll levy which would go into effect July 1, or through quarterly installments made on the basis of his estimated net receipts for the year.

He will find, in most instances, 12½ per cent added to the amount he expected to pay out this year in income taxes, plus an identical 12½ per cent the following year, but those extra bills won't be due until March 15 of 1944 and '45.

He will find from 75 to 100 per cent of what he now owes in income taxes abated, but to him that will remain largely a book-keeping operation until his income declines or until the second certainty—death—steps in. (He will never get any money back, just pay less at some future and uncertain date).

He will have to pay his June 15 installment on last year's income just as if congress had never considered changing the system that has existed since 1913.

All of this will be accomplished by technical provisions which would, as Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) described it in the house when that body approved the compromise measure on a 256 to 114 vote yesterday, put into effect "75 per cent of the Ruml plan" for skipping a year's taxes.

With three Republicans not voting, the Ohio delegations voted 17 to 3 for adoption of the conference report.

The Ohio roll call: Republicans for—Bender, Bolton, Brehm, Brown, Carson, Cleveland, Elston, Griffiths, Hess, Jeffrey, Jenkins, Jones, Lewis, McGregor, Rowe, Smith, Vorys.

Democrats against—Crosser, Feighan, Kirwan.

Republicans absent or not voting—McCowan, Ramey, Weichel.

ACTOR BELIEVED ON MISSING PLANE

British Liner 'Disappears' Leslie Howard Reported Aboard

LONDON, June 2.—A spokesman for the British Overseas Airways said today that a British passenger liner "disappeared" yesterday enroute to England from Lisbon, and reports from the Portuguese capital said the actor, Leslie Howard, was among the 13 passengers.

A Lisbon dispatch reported that the last word heard from the plane was "enemy plane attacking."

Kenneth Stonehouse, former chief of bureau at Washington for Reuters news agency who was enroute to London to take a new assignment, was said to be aboard the aircraft with Mrs. Stonehouse.

The reports from Lisbon said the plane with its Dutch crew was shot down in the stormy bay of Biscaya about half way between Lisbon and England and that concern was felt over weather reports which indicated it would have been difficult for the passengers to take to their rubber boats.

A Berlin broadcast, reporting from Lisbon that the plane was missing, said "it was feared it met with an accident."

Earlier, the German communists reported Nazi reconnaissance planes had shot down three allied bombers and "one transport" over the Atlantic.

The Overseas Airways spokesman said the plane was carrying 13 passengers and that one of them was named Howard. He added, however, that only the surnames of the passengers were available in London at present.

The Lisbon account said Alfred Chaswell, a film director, and three women, each accompanied by a child, also were passengers.

The spokesman said "enemy action" was suspected.

The plane left Lisbon yesterday morning and was due in England last evening, he said.

Howard had been in Spain recently canvassing the possibility of producing films there.
